This is an abstract painting by Robert Rauschenberg, titled 'Landscape'. The composition is dominated by a wide, horizontal band of vibrant yellow in the center. Above this band is a light, textured grey area, and below it is a dark, heavily textured black and white area. The painting features visible brushstrokes and a layered, painterly quality. In the upper left, there are some faint, dark, scribbled lines. The overall effect is one of a landscape captured in a non-representational, expressive manner.
