A 250th anniversary is the semiquincentennial.

Framingham is named for Framlingham, England. The omission of the L may have been a clerical error. Framingham was incorporated in 1700.

The Warren Clock Company, later Telechron, was based in Ashland from 1912 to 1992. Ashland's nickname is Clocktown.

In 1846, 1,666 acres of Holliston was ceded to form part of the Town of Ashland.

The Dimock Health Center in Boston is named for Dr. Susan Dimock, a one-time resident of Hopkinton. She earned her medical degree in Zurich in 1871 and is recognized as one of the first female surgeons in America.

Natick is the birthplace of modern baseball and the site of the first baseball factory in the United States.

The Redstone Schoolhouse was moved from Sterling to its site in Sudbury in 1926. It is believed to be the setting for "Mary Had a Little Lamb".

From 1955 to 1974 Wayland housed a Nike missile base on Oxbow Road — one of only three Boston-area sites.

Attention Community Organizations

The Town Planner Calendar can help your non-profit organization or government agency to promote your events at no cost to you. The Calendar is delivered free of charge in our service area, and 75% of households receiving it hang and use it throughout the year. Consumers tell us that being informed about community events is one of the primary reasons they rely on the Town Planner Calendar. If your organization has activities such as local elections, celebrations, concerts, fairs, library, club or cultural events scheduled for 2026 or 2027, we would like to include them on a space-available basis in print, and in our online calendar. Please email your scheduled events to magerman@townplanner.com.

Sponsorship opportunities for the Year 2027 Edition of the Town Planner® are limited!

ATTENTION PHOTOGRAPHERS Amateur or Professional

We invite you to submit your color photographs for possible use in next year's issue. We are interested in images of local scenery, events, activities and landmarks during all seasons of the year. Photos must adhere to specific guidelines for resolution and size. If you are interested in submitting photos, please email magerman@townplanner.com.
