Joel Bakker

My photography journey started in December of 2013 when I was able to photograph a Snowy Owl that wintered in the farm fields near Sauk Rapids, MN. After spending the winter photographing the arctic visitor, my interest in finding, photographing and observing owls grew substantially.

While out searching for owls I started to take photos of all wildlife I would come across. My passion has grown to night skies, deep space and landscape photography. My work has been published in Freshwater Weather Guide Calendar, The Outdoor News, and used by local news outlets both on air and on social media. I enjoy sharing my photos on my Flickr page, Facebook and Instagram.

There are so many reasons to love your Town Planner Community Calendar! No matter what your reasons are, it takes A LOT of effort to bring you this annual calendar. It may be provided free to local families, but it's definitely not free to publish! And those costs are only rising.

If you're one of the many residents that has told us that they "feel lost" without their planner, we hope that we can count on you to help defer a small portion of the publishing costs by mailing a check of any size to the below address OR simply scan the QR code to contribute on Venmo!

- Early inhabitants: The Winnebago people were the original inhabitants of the Maple Grove area. They were relocated to the area by the Federal Government in the mid-1800s.
- European settlers: The first European settlers arrived in Maple Grove in 1851. These settlers, Louis Gervais and Pierre Bottineau, laid the groundwork for the community that would become Maple Grove.
- City incorporation: Maple Grove was incorporated as a city in 1954.

 This was a pivotal moment in the city's history, as it allowed Maple Grove to establish a structured government and begin planning for future growth
- Maple syrup production: The city was named for its large stands of maple trees, which were a significant source of maple syrup in the days.
- Rapid growth: Since the 1970s, Maple Grove has experienced rapid growth due to the completion and improvement of major highways like Interstates 94/694, 494, and U.S. Highway 169. This growth has transformed Maple Grove from a rural area into a thriving suburban city.
- Pierre Bottineau House: The Pierre Bottineau House is the oldest surviving structure in Maple Grove. Built in 1854, it was the first woodframe house built in Maple Grove Township. The house has been moved from its original location and is now located in Elm Creek Park Reserve.

- A Name Steeped in Native American Tradition: Osseo's name likely comes from the Ojibwe word "Waseia," signifying "there is light" or "Son of the Evening Star." The famed poet Henry Wadsworth Longfellow even mentions Osseo in his epic poem "The Song of Hiawatha."
- Peacemaker on the Prairie: Pierre Bottineau, a French fur trader with strong ties to the Native American community, played a crucial role in Osseo's early history. He frequented the area, then known as Bottineau Prairie, and helped maintain peaceful relations between the settlers and the Dakota people.

- A Town with Two Namesakes: Believe it or not, Osseo wasn't always the sole name for the settlement. In 1856, when the town was being platted, a part of it was initially called "City of Attraction." This name, however, faded away, and Osseo prevailed.
- Potato Powerhouse: Spuds were a prominent agricultural product in Osseo's past. During its peak in 1928, Osseo boasted one of the largest potato markets in the entire Northwest! Daily shipments of up to 100 carloads of potatoes were sent from Osseo to larger cities.
- From Horse-Drawn Carriages to High-Speed Rails: Transportation in Osseo has come a long way. Originally, an old Native American trail served as the town's main street. This trail, eventually designated as Territorial Road, was paved in 1918. The arrival of the Great Northern Railroad in 1882 significantly impacted Osseo's growth and development.
- A Town Hall Steeped in History: The Osseo Town Hall, built in 1901, stands as a testament to the community's past. This structure served not only as a governmental building but also as a social hub, hosting various events and gatherings for residents.
