Railroad service on the Boonton Branch of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad (DL&W) started in Montville on Sept. 12, 1870. The first passenger schedule showed a stop at "Whitehall", a rename of the Towaco area by the railroad. Eventually, the railroad called the station "Towaco". The Rockaway River and the Montville Railroad, which followed Capstick Avenue, transported quarry stone, used to build the Jersey City Reservoir, from the Taylortown Quarry to Boonton.
