Rockaway Township

Mayor Joe Jackson

Mayor's Message

Rockaway Township, NJ, is a distinguished community recognized as the largest municipality in Morris County. It is also a proud member of the NJ Clean Communities organization for numerous decades. Surrounded by remarkable natural resources, including several lakes and ponds, Rockaway Township is committed to preserving its highly valued open spaces. Our public schools are consistently ranked among the best, reflecting a dedication to educational excellence. Additionally, the community honors veterans, demonstrating a profound respect for their service. Rockaway was the first district in the United States to mine and work iron ore actively. The iron industry helped lead to independence from England before the American Revolution. The Historic Ford Faesch House, in turn, represents a key component of this local heritage.
