About Us

Hard work, dedication, and delicious treats are the building blocks of Fragapane's Bakery. For nearly 50 years the Fragapane family has been serving the westside of Cleveland. The original location was opened in Bay Village on March 1st in 1971. Brothers Nick and John Fragapane came together to make their dream a reality. In 1978, the family built the North Olmsted building and opened the doors for the bakery in March of 1979. Since then there have been locations in both Olmsted Falls and Middleburg Heights, however, today Fragapane's Bakery continues in the original two cities, North Olmsted and Bay Village. Through almost half a century, family members continue to operate the business, create new recipes to satisfy every sweet tooth, and serve the communities we love. Today, the bakery is run by brothers Nick and Mike Fragapane, who grew up working in the bakery and learning the trade from their father, Nick, and their Uncle John. The Fragapane family welcomes you to visit their small family business to help make your day sweeter!
