Brooke Cirigliano - 1st Grade Teacher, Surrarer Elementary

In my classroom we use many innovative, open-ended projects that let students create their own solutions and problem-solve in ways that work for them. They enjoy sharing ideas with peers and take pride in their work. Since starting these activities, I've seen their confidence and independence grow, so I now add more curriculum activities that encourage innovation.

Being innovative means that when faced with a challenge, I look to find the right solution, not just the easy one. Nothing in life will go exactly to plan, so the ability to be innovative lets me see uncertainty as an opportunity.

Austin A. - SHS Student (Class of 2026)

Mike Cummins - SCS Maintenance Department

Every day brings unique problems that don't always have a clear solution. Thinking creatively helps me find better, safer, and more efficient ways to get the work done. Being innovative allows me to make lasting improvements around SCS. I try to model this for others by staying open to new ideas and showing that even small changes can make a big difference.

Being resilient has helped me grow so much in my role at SCS. Every day brings something different - weather delays, traffic, or a bus full of energetic students - and I've learned to handle each situation with patience and a positive attitude. Staying calm and adaptable helps create a safe and fun ride for my students. No matter what challenges come our way, we can keep the wheels on the bus rolling.

Tonya Burke - Bus Driver, SCS Transportation Department

Resilience means not giving up and learning from your mistakes to create a plan for improvement. For example, I showed resilience in math class when I didn't get the grade I wanted. Instead of giving up, I made a plan to study harder and improve my performance until I earned the score I was aiming for.

James M. - 4th Grade Student, Whitney Elementary

Theatre artists face setbacks because rehearsals and performances change daily. From creation to final performance, I encourage students to be resilient when they fumble lines, handle props, or face stage fright. I try to cultivate a community that values bold choices, vulnerability, and collaboration, while also modeling mistakes and fixes. Taking risks strengthens confidence and teaches lifelong problem-solving.

Collaboration is one of the most important Model Mustang skills. Communication with one another is key to the success of students. It's important for students to be able to give their peers feedback on their work and to receive criticism, as well. These are valuable skills that will help them in all aspects of their lives. Learning to listen is essential to building strong relationships.

Jay Mutti - SMS 8th Grade Social Studies Teacher

I like to play blocks with my friends.
I can be a kind friend.

Brock C. - Early Learning Preschool Student

Collaboration in an elementary classroom fosters social and cognitive growth. Working together helps students communicate, share ideas, and solve problems. This also builds interpersonal skills, empathy, and respect for diverse perspectives. Explaining concepts to peers deepens understanding, while group work fosters accountability, belonging, engagement, and confidence. Regular collaborative opportunities develop essential life skills in a student-centered classroom.

Emily Gundert - 2nd Grade Teacher, Kinsner Elementary

Having emigrated here over 20 years ago from Ukraine, I can appreciate the global culture at SCS. Both as a parent and employee, I've experienced firsthand how welcoming and supportive our schools are. I love being part of a team that helps create a positive experience for all students and employees alike. Strongsville City Schools will continue its legacy through its students all around the globe.

Larisa Stepanov - SMS Cafeteria Cook

I am from India, and I like to tell people that I was adopted from there. I love sharing what I know about Indian culture with my friends and family. I care about my family and friends a lot. We celebrate each other because we are all different, and that makes us special! I like teaching people new things, and I also learn so much from the people around me.

Vikash B. - 2nd Grade Student, Muraski Elementary

Whitney Elementary is richly diverse with students from around the globe. A global mindset has helped me become more intentional in lesson planning, working with students, and family engagement. I strive to understand each family's culture and circumstances so I can support them in ways that respect their beliefs and norms. Embracing global perspectives reminds me it's not about "me" but about "we," and to appreciate how much "we" have in common.

In our classroom, students are encouraged to become empowered learners. They are given choices throughout the school day so they can work toward discovering their unique way of learning. Together, we are building curiosity, confidence, problem-solving skills, and independence. Each day brings new moments of pride for students as they grow into capable, confident, and empowered learners!

Melanie Ropchock - Intervention Specialist, Early Learning Preschool

Being empowered means to take ownership and control over one's path. I've learned to not try and control what you can't control, but seize the moments where you can. An example of this was my ACL injury. It was a huge roadblock in my life. Instead of moping about the injury, I trained whenever I was available. I did my physical therapy consistently. That is what being empowered looks like. Taking control of what you can control instead of focusing on the negatives will result in success.

Hayden B. - SHS Student (Class of 2028)

When people feel empowered to be their best selves, everyone wins. In the music classroom, students are empowered to explore new instruments and to sing alone in front of their peers. Through practice and the support of their classmates, they are encouraged to believe in themselves and take a risk! I am hopeful that this skill and the empowerment that students feel from it will stay with them throughout their lives!

Alyssa McNickle - Music Teacher, Surrarer Elementary

Collaboration is essential for students in my classroom. By encouraging collaboration in everyday interactions, and especially through lab work, I hope that students see the value of working together. It's important for them to understand that no one can be an expert in everything, which is why learning to communicate and collaborate effectively is such an important skill.

Caitlyn Choe - SHS Science Teacher

Empowerment starts with taking responsibility for your actions, your choices, and most of all yourself. It is important to not let fear and doubt define your abilities. When you embrace your strengths and take ownership for your choices, you gain the power to shape your future. Empowerment also means recognizing that answers won't come to you- you need to go out and find them. Don't wait for things to happen to you. Life will keep you waiting. Make them happen. Empowerment isn't just personal - it is contagious. By taking responsibility, staying resilient, and lifting others up, you create a ripple effect that transforms communities. By being empowered, you can take control of your life. You can take your dreams, your goals, and your future into your own hands.

Bhakti P. - 7th Grade Student, SMS

Teaching students to be resilient is important because it helps them overcome personal and academic challenges to reach their goals. Resilience encourages persistence through difficult tasks and fosters learning from mistakes. When students develop the ability to push through tough times and are encouraged to try, even if it means making mistakes, they build confidence and learn to adapt better, supporting success both in and out of the classroom.

Resilience is something I rely on every day in my role at SCS. There's always something new or unexpected that comes up, and staying calm and focused helps me find solutions and keep things running smoothly for our students and staff. I try to set a positive example by tackling challenges head-on and learning from every situation. My job takes persistence and flexibility - no matter what the day brings, I take pride in making sure our schools stay safe, functional, and ready for learning.

Brenden Mullen - SCS Maintenance Department

As a Speech-Language Pathologist, collaboration is a key part of my role. I partner with teachers, parents, and other staff by actively listening and sharing ideas to support each student's communication goals. I try to model teamwork and collaboration by valuing everyone's input and keeping communication open and respectful. Being collaborative not only helps me do my job to the best of my ability, but also creates a stronger support system for the students to thrive.

2

Kara Schuster - Speech Language Pathologist, Muraski Elementary

Creativity is good for the world because it helps the world evolve. If people remain focused on "what is," they aren't focused on new ideas and there's less they can discover. Being innovative is important because it's a way of expressing yourself. I'm a very creative person, expressing myself through painting, drawing, music, and my personal style. As a nursing student at Polaris, I know that without innovation, it will be harder to improve medicine and health. Humans are very complex, and they need open-mindedness and innovation to help them.

Audrina K. - SHS Student (Class of 2027)

Being collaborative is more than simply working with others. Collaboration works best when people choose to be of service to others. A commitment to service often leads to going beyond accomplishing a shared goal. When team members support each other in unexpected ways, it can inspire our students and community.

Being “lunch ladies” is about far more than serving food, it’s about making connections and overcoming challenges. We feed hundreds of students from diverse cultures and tastes every day, while still trying to encompass nutrition and creativity! We nourish bodies and minds of the future, which is and always has been a privilege! We like to think that we bring students and staff together one meal at a time.

Kat Petroulia - SHS Cafeteria Cook &

Tanya Melland - SHS Assistant Cafeteria Manager

One Model Mustang competency that best fits me is resilience. I seize opportunities to push my limits and demonstrate an ability to grow and improve. I approach every task with curiosity, open-mindedness, and a strong work ethic, always willing to go beyond my comfort zone. My consistent pursuit of academic excellence and involvement in a wide array of after-school activities show determination and effort to exceed expectations. I try to never let setbacks slow me down.

Evangeline P. - SHS Student (Class of 2029)

I like to be collaborative by working on the big floor puzzles with my classmates. I like being kind to my friends when we are playing math games.

Jacob S. - Kindergarten Student,
Chapman Elementary

Being an innovative teacher gives me the opportunity to spark creativity and curiosity daily. I love seeing students experiment, problem-solve, and bring their ideas to life. Together, we learn from successes and mistakes, take risks, and dream big. Through my classroom culture built on curiosity, flexibility, and resilience, I hope my students see that innovation isn’t just about inventing something new - it’s about using their imagination and having perseverance to succeed!

Strongsville Middle School has helped me become a global student by offering classes that encourage compassion, friendship, and understanding. Through meaningful conversations and engagement with my peers, I've learned to embrace diversity and appreciate different perspectives. These experiences have shaped me into a more open-minded and empathetic learner.

Ashlynn B. - 8th Grade Student, SMS

Working with some of the youngest students in our District, it's very important for me to model resiliency. As kindergarten students adjust to elementary school, they often experience a variety of emotions, frustrations, and challenges. As I teach resilience, and also model it myself, my students see how to appropriately respond to frustrations and challenges and handle them. With this learning, my students will be equipped to tackle learning barriers at both home and school, and therefore accomplish any task they set their mind to!

Emma Norheim - Kindergarten Teacher, Muraski Elementary

Being resilient is a skill that has helped me get through my elementary years. Being resilient is what allows me to keep trying again when I make mistakes, so that I can learn and grow. When there is a difficult task, I keep trying to accomplish it and ask for help when I need it. It helps me overcome personal and academic obstacles. I will continue to be resilient - Go Mustangs!

I feel empowered when I answer questions correctly because it makes me more confident, brave, and ready to try new questions. I also feel empowered when I lead in group projects by working with others and helping my group. Leading helps me be a better friend and classmate. Standing up for myself and my friends is important too. It gives me and others the confidence to speak up in the future. When I ask for help, I feel stronger and ready to do my best. Many qualities make me a Model Mustang, but the one that means the most to me is empowerment.

Amelia D. - 6th Grade Student, SMS

A global Model Mustang embraces diversity and actively seeks to build cultural understanding and competence both inside and outside the classroom. At SCS, our students form a dynamic community of learners with rich linguistic, cultural, and familial ties that span the globe. Our English Learners enhance our school community as ambassadors of multiculturalism, contributing unique perspectives that strengthen and inspire us all.

Lizzie Mayher - EL Teacher, Chapman Elementary

Collaboration is huge for me as a middle school counselor. It means I'm always actively listening and communicating openly with my colleagues to hit our student-focused goals together. Since this is only my second year and I'm still relatively new to the district, having a strong team to work alongside has been essential to my growth. Ultimately, this teamwork is what allows me to be the best counselor I can be for the students I serve.

Delvonte Greer - 8th Grade Counselor, SMS

I feel happy when I am innovative because I love to create. I am very artistic but sometimes I face challenges when I am doing projects or trying new things. No matter what, I don't give up. I keep trying until I am satisfied with what I have created. This makes me feel proud of myself!

Being resilient is the most important to me because you should not give up on something. You should try again until you get it. I have shown resilience on a test in Science because when the question was hard, I kept trying until I figured it out. When I am resilient it makes me feel good because I know I didn't give up.

Kendall P. - 3rd Grade Student, Surrarrer Elementary

As an RBT at the Early Learning Preschool, collaboration is essential. RBTs work with Intervention Specialists, Behavioral Analysts, Therapists, and most importantly students, to help our youngest learners succeed. Because every child learns differently, collaboration helps by creating a supportive and consistent environment where everyone works together to meet the child's needs. When everyone communicates and shares strategies, the student receives the same guidance and encouragement across settings. This promotes inclusion and helps the child feel safe and confident.

Joanne Cirigliano - Registered Behavioral Technician, Early Learning Preschool

I'm so grateful to have students who embrace diversity and bring their families' cultural perspectives to our 4th grade classroom. As we read about different places in the world, students eagerly share family connections, growing together through shared learning. Their compassion and willingness to teach one another, makes our big world feel more personal in Strongsville.

Dear Parents and Community Members:

It is my honor and privilege to serve as Strongsville City Schools' Superintendent. Our District is home to more than 5,600 students and consists of one preschool, five elementary schools (grades K-5), one middle school (grades 6-8) and one high school (grades 9-12). With growing enrollment combined with aging elementary buildings, what does the future look like for our District? We recently sent another community mailer - our annual Quality Profile - that highlights the accomplishments of our students and staff, and also addresses this topic. Follow this link (<https://tinyurl.com/SCSQProfile25-26>) or scan the QR Code to see additional details from this mailer.

The "Model Mustang" is our District's foundational plan creating opportunities for our students to develop five durable skills - Innovative, Resilient, Collaborative, Global, and Empowered. The Model Mustang provides focus for all of our students (PreK - 12th Grade) and is our District's thirteen year commitment to provide a premier educational experience that is based on rigorous content and the integration and development of these five durable skills essential for life-long success.

In addition to providing opportunities for students, our staff is also committed to continuing to develop these same Model Mustang skills. This year's calendar spotlights the different ways our Model Mustang is impacting the "People of Strongsville City Schools." We are not only featuring students and the development of the skills most important to them, but also are highlighting teachers and staff members. All share the positive impact these Model Mustang skills are having on their personal and professional development.

We have much to be proud of at Strongsville City Schools. Our students and staff continue to accomplish amazing things inside and outside of the classroom. SCS earned a 4.5 Star Rating ('Exceeds State Standards') for this year's State Report Card. Our District has also been recognized by the National Association of Music Merchants (NAMM) Foundation for the 12th straight year with a "Best Communities for Music Education" award. Our Treasurer's Office has received national recognition for budgets, financial reporting, and fiscal transparency for nine straight years with the Meritorious Budget Award and the Certificate of Excellence in Financial Reporting from the Association of School Business Officials.

I look forward to working with our parents and community in the coming year. If I can be of any assistance, please contact me at 440.572.7010 or cryba@scsmustangs.org. You can also visit our website (www.scsmustangs.org) for additional information about our District.

Go Mustangs!
