My experience with Nancy McIntosh of the Town Planner has gone into the second year now. Our company has found that working with her has been smooth and easy each time we have met to plan our seasonal advertising. She has addressed each of my ad concerns and she has pointed out clever ways to time our calendar ads that help to focus each of the various services that we offer during the year.

The exposure that the Town Planner offers is just what we look for when we are looking to increase our local profile. The additional online presence that we get through the Planner has improved our online exposure as well. I have lately recommended her calendar to other small businesses in our area.

I have found that working directly with Nancy on our ad to be simple and effective. I really do get the sense that she wants to see us succeed and grow.

Sincerely, Mark V. Perry, Precision Tree and Shrub Services inc.
