

Joyce,

When you first approached me with the townplanner calendar, I was kind of indifferent. I get a lot of sales calls from various vendors claiming their marketing is what I need. I was somewhat intrigued however by the fact that your calendar was based on the "local concept", with local businesses marketing to local folks. I had no real idea the impact the calendar would have on us until it came out. My agents and myself have been approached by people within our community saying things like hey you are in my calendar. I have been approached by a competitor saying he had seen some real top notch advertising we had done and how it reflected the quality of our company. I just love the calendar and look forward to advertising in it again next year. Based on the initial response I firmly believe it will more than pay for itself and help us in growing our business.

Thanks so Much & Happy Holidays

Cindy
